SUBJECT OUTLINE:
This course explores Japanese culture and language through the use of the four basic macro skills – listening, writing, reading and speaking. New vocabulary and script are learnt and tested each week, and sentence patterns are introduced and practised in variety of contexts. Students are encouraged to engage in activities with a focus on providing authentic ideas, situations and experiences to best facilitate their language learning. Students will improve their comprehension skills with real conversations in the target language, and develop their composition skills through a variety of reading and writing tasks where students will be exposed to the 3 kana scripts: hiragana, katakana, and kanji. Culture is explored through individual and group research projects and hands-on activities.
